Bicentennial quilt honors families of Huntertown

By Ryan Schwab

While spearheading the Huntertown Heritage Days Festival from the absolute nothing that was 2015 to the 3-day carnival set for 2016, festival committee chair Jenny McComb knew she wanted her own twist on it.

She had one idea.

Her bicentennial quilt featuring the names and years of Huntertown families is complete and on display through the festival – which runs from Thursday-Saturday, Aug. 4-6 – at Farmers & Merchants Bank of Huntertown.

“It turned out better than I had anticipated,” McComb said. “All I knew is that I wanted to do a bicentennial quilt. It had to have the [state of Indiana’s bicentennial] logo and it had to have something about Huntertown on it.”

For just $25, local families could have their last name and the year their family was established in Huntertown embroidered on the quilt. While only 37 names ($875) are featured on the quilt, those families provided a total contribution to the quilt.

ON DISPLAY

The Huntertown Heritage Days Bicentennial Quilt is on display at Farmers and Merchants Bank, 1615 W. Gump Road, Huntertown, through the festival, Aug. 4-6. The quilt's signature design features the names of families and the year in which they moved into Huntertown.

Some took part in sewing, some with pressing and others with cutting and making designs.

“Every part was needed,” McComb said.

The Chocolate Thimble donated all of the quilting costs.

“We had to have a certain number of names at a time for someone to work on it,” McComb said. “We weren’t sure what our design was.

We had to work into it. I started to roll along. I knew I wanted to center it around the Huntertown images. Beyond that, we were just looking at different patterns.”

Names on the quilt date back as far as 1832 while others are as recent as 2006.

The original idea was to sell the quilt to benefit the festival. After one look, however, McComb knew that was out of the question. “This is our heritage,”

City gets $108 million loan to improve water quality

Fort Wayne will get state assistance for ongoing work to improve water quality in the city's rivers.

The city secured a $108 million, low-interest loan through the Indiana Finance Authority's Clean Fund, the state said in a statement.

The loan will finance several projects, including plans to bore a massive tunnel under the city. Wastewater and runoffs would drain into the tunnel during storm treatment plant instead of overflowing into the rivers.

The state money will also help pay for improvements to the treatment plant, wet weather ponds and the ongoing work

Tractors that were the giants of another era pulled the wounded iron from the drag strip.

One puller withdrew from a three-way finale to avoid stressing an overnight $30,000 repair.

Justin Wise of Tiffin, Ohio, hoped his repair would be more modest, perhaps a $100 hose. Only some of the sheet metal is original on his Farmall 1066, which packs a Chevy engine. "We've got about a hundred-fifty in it," he said.

Thousand?

"Yes, thousand."

"They don't do it for the prize money," said Lyn Wilson, longtime publicist of Arcola's biggest spectacle.

Pullers compete for bragging rights and for National Tractor Pullers Association series points.

"It's been going on here for many, many years," said Tom Jackson, of Lodi, Ohio, the Region 2 director of the NTPA.

McComb has been working with the Huntertown Historical Society to create a variety of historical displays related to Huntertown families as well as state history. The Huntertown family history display will be stationed in the pavilion behind Huntertown Elementary School on Saturday, Aug. 6, from noon to 4 p.m.

The state history display will be in the fire station meeting room, same day and time.

"It's our bicentennial. We need to learn about our history," McComb said. "When you have a festival as a 50/50, you are supposed to have a teaching element. We wanted to teach about our history. It's not just about entertaining."

McComb also said that Huntertown resource officer Brandon Reichert and his new K9, Zara, have agreed to a K9 demonstration. Those details have yet to be finalized.

Parking will be available at Huntertown Town Hall, the Huntertown Fire Station, Huntertown Elementary School, Precision Laser and Riverside MFG. There will not be a trolley to take attendees from spot to spot.

"One lady sent us $25 and included a note that said 'I hope this helps a little' and 'thank you for what you do.' I sent a card back to tell her the thank you was greater than the gift. Every bit helps, but I sure did love the thank you. You don't get a lot of that," Jenny McComb said.

Mildred L. (Reinhart) Badiac, 93, of Fort Wayne, passed away January 29, 2017 at The Cedar's Retirement Community, Leo, IN. She was born on January 1, 1924 in Bluffton, IN. She was employed by General Electric as a machinist in her early years along with being a homemaker and a farmer's wife. Later she retired from The Lincoln National Life Insurance Co. in 1988. She was also employed for several years by Walmart and volunteered at Parkview Hospital.

On February 23, 1946 Mildred became the wife of the late Elmer R. Badiac who preceded her in death on June 25, 1997. She was the daughter of the late Ezra A. Reinhard and Delva (Aschliman) Reinhard.

Surviving are her children, all of Fort Wayne, including Marilyn (Casey) Drudge; Carolyn Blount; Gloria (William) Davis; James (Valerie) Badiac; and Samuel (Janel) Badiac. She is also survived by 16 grandchildren and 13 great-grandchildren.

She was preceded in death by siblings Harry Reinhard, Aldulla Reinhard-Pulver, Ezra Reinhard Jr., Dale Reinhard, Kenneth Reinhard, Loretta Reinhard, and Rose Reinhard.

She is survived by sisters Betty (Carl) Macklin of Ossian and Edna (Wm. Gene) Moser of Bluffton, and by brothers James Reinhard of Bluffton and Daniel (Deloris) Reinhard of Eureka, IL.

She enjoyed life, family, friends, baking, gardening and the overall sharing of Christ's love. In earlier years she enjoyed bowling and in recent years she enjoyed playing bingo and quilting.

Funeral service is 11:00 a.m. Thursday, February 2, at Lincolnshire Church of the Brethren, 6404 S. Calhoun St., Fort Wayne, with visitation one hour before. Pastor Gary Reiber will be officiating. Visitation also from 2:00 p.m. to 4:00 p.m. and 6:00 p.m. to 8:00 p.m. on Wednesday, February 1, 2017 at Covington Memorial Funeral Home, 8408 Covington Road, Fort Wayne. Burial will be in Covington Memorial Gardens Cemetery, Fort Wayne.

Preferred memorials to The Cedar's Activities c/o The Cedars, 14409 Sunrise Court, Leo, IN 46765 or the American Red Cross.

The American Heart Association advances groundbreaking research, spreads life-saving knowledge and reaches out to people of all ages. We're fighting heart disease and stroke in your community to ensure healthier, longer lives for you and your loved ones.

Know your blood pressure. If it's high (140/90mm Hg or above), you're at risk of heart disease, stroke and other serious medical problems. Have a doctor check your blood pressure regularly, take your medication as prescribed, and take these steps to keep your blood pressure at a healthy level:

- Get moving. At least 30 minutes of moderate-intensity physical activity on most days of the week can help lower blood pressure.
- Eat healthy. Reduce the amount of salt you eat. Eat more fruits, vegetables and fat-free and low-fat dairy products.
- Maintain a healthy weight. Excess weight may raise your blood pressure.
- Follow your healthcare provider's advice exactly, especially regarding medicine.

use would encroach on a long-standing quiet residential neighborhood.

Although about 150 people would be capacity at the venue, there is room for only 60 parking spaces, none paved. The operators proposed using "a bathroom trailer" that could be brought on and off the site, which had no commercial well.

Neighbors also pointed out the entrance is near a dangerous "S" curve and that while the proposed conditions of approval required no noise to be heard beyond the property lines, that was unlikely.

"I have no idea how that's going to happen in an outdoor venue," said Mike Coco, a Simon Road resident. He said events had already been held on the property and noise was evident. A representative for the applicants said the neighbors were family related.

Both the campground and the event venue would have been in land zoned agricultural.

Zoning board members Thomas Black, Susie Hood and Renee Fisher voting against the proposals. Drew Abbring and Ron Kohart were absent.

those students on our campus but anyone facing food insecurities in northeast Indiana," Price said in a statement.

Community Harvest shares the excitement, Executive Vice President Carmen Cumberland said.

"With nearly 25 percent of college students reporting hunger nationwide, this pantry will allow students to focus on learning instead of where their next meal is coming from," Cumberland said in a statement.

IPFW views the pantry as a leadership opportunity for students, Cyranson said.

A student is the pantry manager, she said, and students helped build donation bins that are located in most every building on campus. She expects other volunteer opportunities will also arise.

The Office of Diversity and Multicultural Affairs and the Office of Student Life and Leadership – with financial support from the Indiana-Purdue Student Government Association – partnered on the effort.

Metary gifts and more than 3,000 pounds of food were donated before the grand opening, according to a news release.

"The IPFW pantry is very interested in supporting our students," Cyranson said.

cedures were followed, but excessive chemical releases typically don't require spill notifications," spokesman Barry Stedman said.

Mark Templeton, director of the Abrams Environmental Law Clinic, said he's concerned about regulators not penalizing U.S. Steel since the April spill or notifying the public about the October release.

"The public obviously has a right to know," he said.

■ Granted Skyway Towers until May 15 to install equipment to establish use of a contested communications tower. The issue has simmered since 2015, when neighbors objected to the location of the tower. It was approved on condition that the use be established by August 2016.

The tower was built, but equipment not placed, despite approved extensions to March and July. The company secured a permit in August, which has not been used. The board's action to extend the deadline again effectively cancels a revocation hearing scheduled for December.

I SAID A
Christmas Prayer
FOR YOU

because the season's near.

I didn't ask for riches
but for gifts so much more dear.

I asked for joyful gatherings with your family all around,
And for carols to inspire you with their old familiar sound.

I asked for quiet moments in your heart on Christmas morn,
For a special time to celebrate the Savior who was born.

I asked for friends to send their best that you might know they care...

I asked for peace and love and hope,
and I know God heard my prayer.

CHRISTMAS

I moved to an Assistant Living apartment at the "Heritage of Fort Wayne" on October 4. Quite a new facility about 3 years old. Costly, but privileges are great and can get easily spoiled. Am meeting so many interesting people and sharing our life experiences (small world after all)!!

Miss going to my United Brethren Church every Sunday, but, when I remember, I go to the Methodist service here at 3:30. Bible Study and other activities during week.

Have been blessed from some of my family members who helped me through this change at age 86. Sold my car so sister Ann drives me where I want/need to go.

HEAR FROM YOU SOON??

A hug and love to you!

Oh My!!!! Almost too late, AGAIN!!!! After we received our third cherry greeting, was told to get out of the front window and get to gettin' to gettin'.

Was ONLY going to send you the picture. Mommy said that unless I did the Holiday letter thingie, she would hide the stamps, so ---- here I go to work on my writin'.

Mommy is fiddling with the daily log book, so shall just have to work from memory. Thankfully you will be spared most of 2017 happenings. Me, closing up on being thirteen years old, I think. Here it comes----

Of every morning; we get up; she gets dressed; takes her meds; then I get to eat, and go out into the backyard to tend to my morning business. In, get hooked up, and off we go for our daily stroll. Best part of all is each time I go in - out - back in again, get cookies (doggie treats to the un knowing). Me, then, gets up on my front window perch watching the passing parade while acknowledging some, while mommy does, or doesn't do much of anything. That a' way we both enjoy our day, in our own way.

For the most park 2017 had been tranquil, peaceful, quiet, fitting into our non-plus lifestyle. We've really yet to go anywhere, do much of anything other than enjoy do whatever, whenever we wish should the desire give 'her' a kindly nudge. Ain't it grand to have aging to blame for making excuses November 17th, my sister Summer went to the doctor and has yet to return home.. Heard mommy say something to someone about she had crossed over the Rainbow Bridge, joining Good Old Pat Brown, Dobi and all my other sisters I followed, after they left. We will join them, one day. Sure hope it's a long while as we want to keep watching to see what the heck is gonna' happen next. Shortly after Summer 'crossed', pneumonia paid mommy a visit. Nice of it to go on its merry way while leaving little after effects.

The last couple of weeks we have had frost on the fruit tree leaves, and the Van windshield. Temperature, in the early morning, has sat around 28 to 30 degrees. You laugh, cause we gots cold mornings? After the sun comes up, the thermometer gets up to OVER 75-80 degrees. Guess who gots a BIG smile on their face now???? Yup, me doo. When mommy reads this she'll most likely chuckle out loud !!!!

The horrendous fires, being about an hour away, have yet to even send smoke our way, the wicked wind blowing it all out over the ocean. Sadly the wicked wind is fanning the fires to a terrible extent. The biggest December will, we hope, will allow us to continue our 2017 lifestyle of solitary peace quiet and tranquility while continuing on through the Holidays, and onward in to a VERY HAPPY NEW YEAR.

A hug would make my day.

Dear Patty Low

Wishing you a season of good times, good friends, and warm memories.

Merry Christmas and Happy New Year

Keep on kickin', see ya FWD!!

As ever,

The American Heart Association advances groundbreaking research, spreads lifesaving knowledge and reaches out to people of all ages. We're fighting heart disease and stroke in your community to ensure healthier, longer lives for you and your loved ones.

The sender of this card supports our work.

Know your blood pressure. If it's high (140/90mm Hg or above), you're at risk of heart disease, stroke and other serious medical problems. Have a doctor check your blood pressure regularly, take your medication as prescribed, and take these steps to keep your blood pressure at a healthy level:

- Get moving. At least 30 minutes of moderate-intensity physical activity on most days of the week can help lower blood pressure.
- Eat healthy. Reduce the amount of salt you eat. Eat more fruits, vegetables and fat-free and low-fat dairy products.
- Maintain a healthy weight. Excess weight may raise your blood pressure.
- Follow your healthcare provider's advice exactly, especially regarding medicine.
